Happy Holidays & New Year (Last Post of 2011!)

December 21, 2011 By Shawn Decker

A very happy holiday to you, and a happy December if you're an atheist. Whatever you dig, I'm just too tickled that you check in on me from time to time here on this blog. Lately I haven't been the updating machine that I was in January when I did the "Blog Post a Day" New Year's resolution but...

Wait- has it been a year already?

If you're wondering what I've been up to, well, not too much. Chilling out. Enjoying life. I guess that isn't isn't much in the grand scheme of things. I believe in guardian angels, and that mine have worked over time since the day I was born. And a day doesn't go by in which I do not silently, or vocally, give thanks to this.

I hope you are enjoying your life; if not, then hang in there and begin the small, medium and large steps to making that happen. Whether you've ever been given a life-threatening diagnosis or not, life is ultimately too short not to find peace while we are tooling around here.

Happy holidays,
Shawn
