National HIV Coming Out Day?

Michael Kaplan, the CEO and president of AIDS United, proposed a National HIV Coming Out Day “to create a movement of people living with HIV that changes the national discourse.”

April 30, 2013 By Trent Straube

In his op-ed on POZ.com, Michael Kaplan, the CEO and president of AIDS United, proposed a National HIV Coming Out Day “to create a movement of people living with HIV that changes the national discourse.” Putting familiar faces to the virus, he says, will help combat stigma and raise awareness. Kaplan also acknowledges “the unfortunate reality for some will be that it’s just not possible [to disclose]. It may jeopardize their jobs, their relationships` and so much more. But where we can, we must.”

Where do you stand? Read the June Letters for further discussion, then let us know whether you’re in or out.

© 2026 Smart + Strong All Rights Reserved.

http://beta.docker.poz.com/article/national-coming-out-23858-7880