NLAAN Survey Wants You

September 8, 2010 By Oriol R. Gutierrez Jr.

The National Latino AIDS Action Network (NLAAN), which advocates for Latino HIV/AIDS issues, has developed a brief survey to understand how the national HIV/AIDS strategy and health care reform may affect Latinos.

NLAAN would like to have preliminary results available to share at the 2010 United States Conference on AIDS, which starts Sunday, September 12, in Orlando.

As a result, NLAAN is asking for people to complete the survey by 5 p.m. Eastern time on Friday, September 10. You do not have to be Latino to participate, but everyone completing the survey should work with and care for Latino communities.

Go to http://www.surveymonkey.com/s/NLAANsurvey to complete the survey.

© 2026 Smart + Strong All Rights Reserved.