Quilt Trip

October 1, 2004 By Emmy Favilla

Admirers thread among 8,000 new AIDS Memorial Quilt blocks blanketing the Ellipse—just south of the White House—on its June 25 debut. The three-day display marked the first massive unfolding in Washington, DC, since 1996. Maintained by the Names Project, the quilt has embarked on a two-year, 50-city national tour to raise funds for its permanent return to the capital, in 2006.
