San Francisco HIV Campaign Promotes Female Condoms

February 14, 2011

San Francisco has launched an HIV awareness campaign promoting female condoms, according to a statement by the Female Health Company (FHC), which makes the FC2 Female Condom. The city is providing posters, bus advertisements and other advertising materials to local businesses and community organizations. The city also has partnered with FHC to train health services organizations to promote the FC2. This initiative mirrors similar campaigns launched last year in Chicago, New York City and Washington, DC.
