

HIV Vaccine Awareness Day 2012

May 17, 2012

---

Friday, May 18, is HIV Vaccine Awareness Day. This annual observance is dedicated to recognizing those who work toward finding a safe, effective preventative HIV vaccine: scientists, health professionals, volunteers and community advocates. The day is also dedicated to educating the community about the importance of vaccine research. Related media events and community activities are scheduled across the United States.
