

Jolie-Pitt Foundation Funds Ethiopian AIDS and TB Center

September 15, 2008

Angelina Jolie and Brad Pitt donated $2 million through their Jolie-Pitt Foundation to the Global Health Committee, which will establish a center for children in Ethiopia affected by HIV/AIDS and tuberculosis, [MSNBC.com/Access Hollywood](http://MSNBC.com/Access Hollywood) reports.

The center will be an expansion of the Cambodian Health Committee, which has fought both life-threatening diseases in that country since 1994.

“Our goal is to transfer the success we have had in Cambodia to Ethiopia where people are needlessly dying of tuberculosis, a curable disease, and HIV/AIDS, a treatable disease,” Jolie told Access Hollywood.

The couple’s oldest son, Maddox, was born in Cambodia, while Zahara, their adopted daughter, hails from Ethiopia.

“It is our hope when Zahara is older she will take responsibility of the clinic and continue its mission,” Pitt said in a statement.
