Long-Term Survival

The results are in.

January 9, 2017 By Jennifer Morton

Today, the majority of people living with HIV in the United States are over 50 years old. And many have been living with the virus for more than 25 years. Long-term survivors face age-related challenges like everyone else, but add HIV-related stigma to the mix and there's a greater likelihood for individuals to become isolated and depressed. POZ recently asked you about your life as a long-term survivor. Here are your responses.

© 2026 Smart + Strong All Rights Reserved.