Wanna go on a guilt-free shopping spree? Then visit the Keith Haring line of shoes and eyewear at retailer TOMS. For every item you buy, TOMS helps out a person in need by providing shoes, fresh water, eyeglasses, health care training and more. So it's perfect that TOMS collaborated with the Keith Haring Foundation, which supports AIDS education and helps children across the globe. Haring—an iconic pop artist whose colorful graffiti style often took on political and social issues, including HIV—established his foundation before dying in 1990 of AIDS-related illness.

The Keith Haring line at TOMS includes six styles of shoes—three for men, three for women—and two types of eyeglasses, similar to those he wore. Prices range from $59 to $219. What better way to look good and do good!
