

“Ask Me, Tell Me” Wants You

June 18, 2010 By Oriol R. Gutierrez Jr.

✖ "HIV Big Deal" is an ongoing HIV prevention and HIV testing multimedia campaign for men who have sex with men (MSM). It's a collaboration between the NYC-based nonprofit Public Health Solutions (PHS) and New York University's Steinhardt School of Culture, Education, and Human Development.

The main component of the campaign is a series of “video dramas” depicting the various issues MSM deal with surrounding HIV. PHS is developing another video for the series. “Ask Me, Tell Me” will feature stories about how MSM disclose their HIV status to their sex partners and how they negotiate safer sex.

The producers of the new video are seeking help from all MSM regardless of their HIV status. They're asking you to submit anonymous stories about HIV disclosure. If you're interested, please click here for more information.

Also, the producers will be holding a focus group in New York City about the new video at 6 p.m. on Thursday, June 24. If you're interested, please directly contact Jose Nanin, EdD, by email at jnanin@kbcc.cuny.edu or by phone at 718.368.5705 for more information.
