

What Would You Give Up To Give Back?

May 12, 2017 By POZ Staff

Last night, Generation Love (genLOVE), the young professionals’ group of God’s Love We Deliver (GLWD), held a cocktail party at Cadillac House in New York City and asked guests what they’d be willing to give up in order to give back. Two iced lattes a month? One taxi ride a week? For as little as $10 a month, attendees were encouraged to join the Kitchen Cabinet program and support the work of GLWD—which provides nearly 6,000 meals a day to people living with HIV/AIDS, cancer, multiple sclerosis and other life-altering illnesses. For more than 30 years, GLWD has served clients meals and offered nutrition counseling, and the monthly contributions help the staff and volunteers continue to meet their mission.

So what would you give up? Knowing that even a small sacrifice can make a big difference in someone else’s life is reason enough to answer the question.

Visit godslovewedeliver.org/kitchencabinet for more info and check out photos below from the event:

