Labtest Contest IV: The Winner Gets A Mocha!

March 15, 2011 By Shawn Decker

Last March, July and December I held a "Labtest Contest", giving readers of this blog a chance to win something cool simply by guessing how many t-cells I have when I get my labs drawn. Well, last Thursday I had labwork done, and in a few days I'll email my doctor and get the results...

Here's a refresher on the rules (subject to change, just like my t-cells):
Official Rules
1. You have to post your guess (between 450 and 750 t-cells) on my Poz blog Comments section
2. Relatives are disqualified (only because that makes this seem official)
3. Closest guess wins- no Price is Right logic applies.
4. One vote/guess per person.
5. Deadline is Thursday, March 17, 2011 at 11:59 EST.

Roll call of champions:
March-July 2010: Charles Oliff (guess: 567 actual count: 565)
July-December 2010: Aimee Lee (guess: 516 actual: 511)
December 2010-Current Champion: "Satan" (guess: 666 actual: 662)

Last time out I put up my Jesus hat as the prize for the winner, and an anonymous guess who only went by the name Satan won with a guess of 666. No one ever stepped forward claiming to be "Satan", so the winner ended up being me. Not because I posted my highest t-cell count ever with 662, but because I got to keep my Jesus hat.

So this time the stakes are much higher. The winner and new champion of my t-cells will get an iced mocha... yes, you read that right- the ultimate iced mocha mooch is going to buy you an iced mocha if you win. Or whatever drink of no value higher than $5 that you prefer.

Okay, I'm posting a guess now. Good luck to all who humor me with a guess!
