New Android version of iStayHealthy is available

August 3, 2012 By iStayHealthy

I just uploaded a new version of iStayHealthy for Android to Google Play.

Version 2.0.7 contains a fix for problems with multiple alert settings. Many thanks to the user who pointed out that problem!

Problem description:

say you set 3 alerts (for 3 different meds) the app would only fire only 1 or none at all.
Version 2.0.7 fixes this problem. I also spent some time on making sure that your existing alert settings get transferred over to the new version. It works on my device, but if you have any problems it might be best to reset the alerts.
2.0.7 also contains a few other minor bug fixes.
The new version is available for download now.
