

World Hemophilia Day

April 17, 2009 By Shawn Decker

---

Today is World Hemophilia Day! If you'd like to observe the 20th anniversary of World Hemophilia Day here's what you can do this weekend.

✖ - Hug a Thinblood: Not too tightly, but not too soft, either. Cyberhugs are good, too.

- Donate Blood: People with bleeding disorders rely on blood products. It's safe and easy to donate!

- Punch Yourself In Nose: PLEASE NOTE... This is only for Thickbloods. Pretend the bleeding won't stop for a while, and empathize with Thinbloods. (Please Don't, actually.)

World Hemophilia Day really snuck up on me this year. I've slept half the day away, and now I gotta go play catch up. My advice to fellow Thinbloods- take full advantage of today! If there is someone you are pining for, they have to go out on a date with you. Especially if you show up in the suit pictured with a dozen roses... be creative in how you exploit this!

And no, Decker's Daily wasn't launched on Monday to rack up sponsors today. Though I was shocked to have gotten 8 days of coffee- more on that later... for now, I gotta get out of the house, grab a cup of joe, and scream to the world: "I am Thinblood, hear me roar!"

Positively Yours,
Shawn

✖ Share the Blog. Not the Virus. ✖✖✖✖✖ Shawn's Website Read Shawn's columns
Buy Shawn's book Treat Shawn to Coffee